Side Hinged Personnel Doors

Our personnel doors are the perfect solution for getting in and out of your garage without opening the main doors. They provide discreet and convenient access, which can be particularly helpful if you store things such as appliances, bicycles and other things you want to access frequently in your garage space.

The two types we offer consist of a single skin steel version and a double skin insulated version available in a wide variety of designs and colours to match your main garage door if required.

Single Skin Doors

The standard Side Hinged Single Skin Steel Personnel Door comes with two point locking as standard. All painted doors are fully finished with a high-grade white powder-coating, with the option of a variety of colours for most standard sizes. All doors come complete with a galvanized steel mounting frame supplied in the same colour as the door or complementary in the case of Woodgrain steel effect.

Vertical small rib design in a powder coated white finish. Complete with black handle and threshold.

Vertical small rib design in a Rosewood Laminate finish. Complete with complimentary frame in brown.

Insulated Side Doors

Upgrading to our range of insulated personnel doors provides an increased level of insulation due to the 40mm foam filled panels combined with the sealing all around the frame. This combination results in optimum performance from the door. In addition it is possible to increase the security level by the use of a 3 point locking option which engages fully with the framework. All the doors are fully finished to your desired colour and require no ongoing maintenance.
